

INTERNATIONAL COSMOS PRIZE
2021 online commemorative lecture

<International Cosmos Prize>

The International Cosmos Prize was established at the 1990 International Flower and Greenery Expo (EXPO' 90) to further inherit and develop the idea of the "Harmonious Coexistence between Nature and Humankind".
The Prize is awarded to outstanding activities (research and otherwise) in Japan and overseas that are in line with this idea.

IN SEARCH OF THE FIRST FARMERS AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

2021 cosmos prizewinner

Peter Bellwood

Emeritus Professor
Australian National University

Dr. Bellwood is an archaeologist whose main research theme is Neolithic life in Oceania and Southeast Asia, and who studies the spread of agriculture, which is closely related to human migration, from a global perspective. The event will include a discussion with Yoichiro SATO (Professor, Kyoto Prefectural University), who is the supervising translator of Dr. Bellwood's book, "FIRST FARMERS" and a response to preliminary questions from the audience.
